OUTLINES.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, the chorus girl wife of Harry Kendall Thaw, was the main witness in his trial yesterday in New York for the murder of Stanford White; choking with emotion, she told a pitiful story of her former relations with White and testified about the fatal night at Madison Square Garden when he paid the forfeit with his life. ——The unknown schooner supposed to be bound for Wilmington, which was ashore at Cape Hatteras, was swallowed up by the waves on Wednesday night; the crew clinging to her masts, were probably frozen to death before the ocean claimed them. ——Yesterday during the investigation of the Brownsville affair before the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, Senator Foraker called a witness by the name of "Winter Washington," Senator Overman asked if he said Booker Washington, whereupon the Ohio Senator replied that "Booker Washington is too busy attending to his Senatorial duties to come here."——In New York yesterday John D. Rockefeller, of the Standard Oil Company, made the most enormous gift ever donated to the cause of education; the amount being $32,000,000 for the owrk of the Genera' Education Board; it swells Mr. Rockefeller's gifts to $43,000.000 to New York.——President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft will take a fortnight to consider W. J. Oliver's bid to complete the Panama canal, the President is disposed to accept the Oliver bid, but Chief Engineer Stevens is determined to resign if the government does not continue the construction work on its own responsibility.——Prices were bettered on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday on a rumor from Washington that President Roosevelt would relax his hostility to railroads, and also upon a proposition to increase freight rates.——New York markets: Money on call, easy 2 1-4 to 3 per cent.; ruling rate 2 3-4; closing bid, 2 1-4; offered at 2 1-2; spot cotton 5 points higher, closing steady at 11.05; flour, dull, but firm; wheat, strong; No. 2 red, 83 1-4 elevator; oats strong; mixed, 46 1-2; turpentine and rosin firm.

A successful lobbyist these times would be the fellow who could play his game in a way that would make him look like an innocent and disinterested citizen, wholly and totally unsuspected.

It seems that Charley Hanks and George Harriman sold President Roosevelt a gold brick but the President came back and threw it at them. Still Uncle Sam has to pay Hanks and Harriman for their hot air.

After the Bickett bill to provide $500,000 for the State's humane institutions shall have been read the third time in either house of the General Assembly, it should require only ten minutes to pass it.

It looks curious to see members of Congress and delegations of Governors honey-fuggling around Speaker Cannon to induce him to permit consideration of measures by the Congressmen elected by the people to do what Uncle Joe doesn't let them do.

Daniel W. Field, wealthy shoe manufacturer and stockbroker, of Brockton, Mass., recently paid $8,000 for a Holstein-Friesian cow. People may think that is a whopping big price, but Mr. Field has already sold $4,000 of bovine futures. He has sold her next calf for that price.

The Norfolk Virginian-Pilot ups and says: "The legislatures of five States are considering bills for the taxation of bachelors. Not lawful under the Fourteenth Amendment. Discrimination of the worst sort." Some men are bound to think that it is interfering with their right of self defense.

The Martha Washington Hotel, a New York hostelrie for women only, has not had the patronage that was expected at $1 a day for a comfortable room and meals. The manager probably neglected to have bargain days with the price market down to 99 cents and trading stamps on the side.

The Hotel Selwyn, Charlotte's magnificent hostelrie, opens for business today. We have seen that house and it is a daisy. The building is one of the prettiest south of the Penobscot. Charlotte has every reason to point to it with pride. If other cities were not erecting such hotels as the Selwyn, Wilmington might rest on her oars, but as other cities refuse to stay in the old ruts Wilmington will have to join the procession.

President Roosevelt talked like he would appoint a negro to the fat office of Surveyor of Customs of Cincinnati, but he hasn't. He, however, stirred up Senators Foraker and Dick and the whole Ohio Congressional delegation. President Roosevelt knows better than Tillman how to be funny. He followed the plan of the fellow who poked at the monkeys in the cage. The fellow who can laugh best at Roosevelt's Ohio fun is Senator Tillman.

HOSPITAL ALL RIGHT

Public Support Given the Institution Wisely and Judiciously Spent by Management

CHARITIES RECEIVE SHARE

Auditing Committee of Board of County Commissioners Examined Annual Report at Meeting Yesterday Afternoon.

The Auditing Committee of the Board of County Commissioners after a careful analysis of the annual report of the James Walker Memorial Hospital at the regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon expressed full satisfaction with the manner of disposal of the public fund, contributed to the support of the institution, and gave the opinion that the affairs of the hospital are wisely and judiciously managed.

The annual report of the hospital had been referred to the committee from the regular meeting of the full Board Monday afternoon with the request that the financial statement be carefully analyzed to see if the $7,200 per year appropriated to the institution annually, was used in reasonable proportion for the treatment of charity patients. On the face of the statement, it did not appear to be explicit enough and did not seem to be in detail that was required by law. The committee was instructed, if necessary, to call for a more detailed report or to have the surgeon in charge of the institution requested to come before the committee and give any further information desired.

This was found unnecessary yesterday afternoon, the committee having very thoroughly analyzed the figures as originally presented and having satisfied the members that the funds were being judiciously expended and that the pay patients in the hospital were receiving no more than they were entitled to. The committee will so report to the full meeting of the Board at its next regular meeting.

Present yesterday were Chairman McEachern and Commissioners William F. Robertson and H. L. Vollers. Aside from auditing and approving the January report of the treasurer, the only other matter attended to at the meeting was the burning of four Court House bonds of $100 each, two of the number being due in 1912 and two in 1917. These are of recent issue called in and paid from the proceeds of the sale of the O'd Court House. Of the number called in there are now only eight outstanding. These are of the $500 denomination and the books show that they are held by Mrs. P. M. McCrary. It is said that these have been lost.

The report of the treasurer shows receipts and disbursements of the public funds during January as follows:

Receipts—Balance general fund January 1, $41,819.50; special fund, $3,224.50; road fund, $34,192.79; road sinking fund $11,616.01; interest, $103.03 jury tax $6; liquor tax $2,992.50; general county tax, $509 29; special county tax $285.00; road sinking fund tax $1,140.06; jail fees $64.20; cash from County Home, $9.10; marriage licenses $38. Total, $95,999.98.

Disbursements—Road sinking fund $2,165.81; special county fund $595.87; road fund $2,305.83; County Home $179.27; outdoor poor, $330.03; roads and bridges $93.99: Superior Court $589.20; United Charities, $139.50; public buildings $341.92; hospital $600; jail $227.95, military $300; refunded tax 72c; election $33; miscellaneous $179.92; printing and stationery $162.15; commissioners $174; Register of Deeds $21; Superintendent of Health $100; Coroner $40; clerk $60; janitor $50; Treasurer's commissions $90 51. Total $8,780.67.

The balance to February account is $87,219.31 as follows: general county fund $41,725.43; special county fund, $2,9'3 63; road fund $31,989.99; road sinking fund $10,590.26.

Conference This Evening.

The joint conference of the Board of Audit and Finance and Board of Aldermen will be held tonight for the purpose of examining and approving the bills drawn by City Attorney Bellamy authorizing the city to vote upon bond issues for street improvement, water works and sewerage. It is important that there be a full attendance as the matter of the improvement of the streets upon a large scale is regarded as especially important and the people of the city are looking to the authorities to provide them with a means of going on record on this question.

FINE OF $50 IMPOSED

Former Special Policeman C. T. Croom Received Extreme Penalty From Mayor Yesterday For Disorderly Conduct—Appeal Higher Court.

Former Special Policeman C. T. Croom was fined $50 and costs by the Mayor yesterday for disorderly conduct in entering the house of Henrietta Hill, colored, near Fifth and Harnett streets, night before last, as he alleged, in search of a criminal. From this judgment, Thomas D. Meares, Jr., Esq., counsel for Mr. Croom, took an appeal to the Superior Court. Another white man, F. Hannerford, who accompanied Mr. Croom on the night he is said to have made the unfortunate dash after the criminal, was served with a warrant after court, also charging him with disorderly conduct, but according to his statement, he had absolutely nothing to do with the proceedings. Mr. Meares became bondsman for his client. The point is made by Mr. Meares that the fine is excessive in that $20 is the maximum which the Mayor can impose for disorderly conduct under the city ordinances and further that Mr. Croom was acting as any citizen would have had a right to have done under similar circumstances.

On the other hand the Mayor held that Mr. Croom, not being an officer, had no right to enter the house, and according to the prosecuting witness, even had he been an officer, his conduct on that occasion would not have reflected credit upon the law. The point as to the excessive fine was fully argued, but the Mayor declined to change the judgment. The case will come up at the April term of court and will be one of the most interesting of the term.

AUTOMOBILE AND CAR CRASH.

Mr. Russell Foster Had Narrow Escape From Injury Yesterday.

The automobile of Mr. D. Russell Foster, the well known real estate agent, was wrecked early yesterday afternoon near Fourth and Harnett streets as the result of a collision with a street car. Mr. Foster was driving his machine in a northerly direction and the car was but a short distance behind him. The top of the auto was up and Mr. Foster either misjudged the near approach of the car or the motorman misjudged his course. As the driver of the machine started to wheel it across the track, the car was upon him before he knew it, the bow, or front end of it being smashed in and the fender of the car bent up right badly. Mr. Foster escaped by jumping, though his escape was narrow. The machine was damaged to the extent of about $150 according to Mr. Foster.

The street car was in charge of Motorman Marslander and his run was 13, the automobile number being 23. With such a combination of figures the casual observers of the wreck remarked that it was no wonder the accident occurred.

THE ELITE MINSTRELS

Big Show of Burnt Cork at Academy Monday Night

Nightly rehearsals are rapidly wearing the rough edges off the cast of the Elite Entertainers, which on next Monday night will present the "biggest and brightest" minstrel show at the Academy of Music for the benefit of the Knights of Columbus. No expense is being spared in the embellishments of the production which will be with all new costumes and elaborate stage settings. Farce comedy and musical veins will tend to lighten the production and something new and refreshing may be expected.

The first part will be a fulll dress affair introducing the best local talent. There will be eight end men and their jokes will all be new and of a local bearing. The quartette work will be looked after by the Acme singers. Then the K. of C. will appear in black face with five musical numbers in the olio. Pat Gerken will have a monologue stunt; there will be illustrated songs; Wilson and Daniels will be seen in a buck and wing dance skit and Johnny Meier will close the show with a song and dance. The ends will be Messrs. Johnny Meier, Ernest Campbell, Will Daniels, Jimmy Rafferty, Pat Gerken, Julius Taylor, Everett Wilson and H. Cornell. The K. of C. Band will be directed by Prof. H. Womersley. Mr. Jere Carewe will be seen as interlocutor.

RECITAL AT ARMORY

Miss Sarah Peck Hines Will Entertain on Monday Evening.

Miss Sarah Peck Hines, who will give a reading Monday night at 8:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the Boys' Brigade Armory under the auspices of that organization, is a graduate of the Boston School of Expression and for the past two years has been director of the School of Expression at Columbia College. Her methods and her interpretation of literature endeavor to bring her audience in close touch with nature, which after all is the real art. Miss Hines has been heard by a Wilmington audience before and those who have attended her readings have been delighted. The programme will be varied and there will be something to interest and entertain all.

MUNICIPAL PRIMARY

March Thirteenth Decided Upon As Date By the City Executive Committee.

ELECTION OFFICERS NAMED

Candidates Now Being Groomed For the Race—Expenses to be Borne By Those Who Run—Woodus Kellum, Esq. Chairman.

"Groom your candidates for Mayor and Aldermen!"

Such was the import of the action of the Democratic City Executive Committee at its called meeting yesterday at noon. Wednesday, March 13th, was decided upon as the date for the primaries for the nomination of candidates for the respective offices at the general election for municipall officers on Tuesday, May 7th. It was decided to have an entirely new registration for the primary and at the meeting yesterday the registrars and judges of election for the primaries were appointed and all other business was transacted so that there will not be need for another meeting of the committee before the last of the month. The primary had to be called within 60 days of the general election under the Boney law so there was little difference of opinion on the time it is expected now that the primary has been called that the municipal campaign will begin in dead earnest though it is known that at least two of the candidates for the Mayoralty have been keeping a close eye on their fences for some weeks. The question of the establishment of a Recorder's Court and the election of a judge of the same and a clerk will not come up until the general election in May.

All members of the Executive Committee were present yesterday except Captain J. VanB. Metts, of the Second Ward. In spite of his absence, he was elected secretary and treasurer of the committee and Woodus Kellum, Esq., was elected chairman, which showed that some attention had been given to organization even before the meeting. Both the candidates for the Mayoralty, however, expressed themselves as pleased with the organization and the representation received in the primary officers and registrars. In the absence of Captain Metts, the records of the meeting yesterday were kept by Mr. L. B. Rogers. Members of the committee were:

First Ward—S. L. P. Anderson and W. G. Brinkley.

Second Ward—G. W. Chesnutt.

Third Ward—H. G. Fennell and H. T. Bauman.

Fourth Ward—L. B. Rogers and C. W. Worth.

Fifth Ward—K. W. Jewell and Woodus Kellum.

The various registrars and election officers for the primary were named as follows, it being understood that the polling places will be the same as in the last general election, so far as the arrangements can be made, viz:

First Ward—Registrar, J. M. Woolard; judges, Captain John Barry and Frank P. Lamb.

Second Ward—Registrar, T. W. Wood; judges, John F. Garrell and F. S. Shepard.

Third Ward—Registrar, A. G. Hankins; judges, J. D. Kelly and J. D. Powers.

Fourth Ward—Registrar, W. P. Oldham; judges, J. S. Williams and E. P. H. Strunck.

Fifth Ward—Registrar, T. G. Landen; judges, P. D. Jenkins and Jordan Branch.

Profiting by the experience of the last city primary when many of the election officers had to go without their pay, the committee decided to make the candidates pay the expenses of the election and each will be assessed according to the diginity of the office to which they aspire. The city, of course, pays for the general election in May and appoints the registrars and election officers for the same. The amount required for holding the primary will be later determined and assessed against the candidates. It was decided to have an entirely new regisration for the primary and the arrangement of these details was left with the chairman and secretary.

Wreck on the Yards.

A shifting engine on the railroad yards here yesterday morning jumped the track and sidewiped two freight cars on parallel tracks. Both the cars were smashed in and the cab of the shifter was partially demolished. Engineer B. C. King was painfully, but not seriously wounded. He was attended by Dr. D. W. Bulluck, A. C. L. surgeon, and sent to his home. The tracks were cleared very soon after the wreck.

Sunday Services in Academy.

The public is cordially invited to hear two discourses in the Academy of Music Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and Sunday evening at 8 o'clock by Mr. J. H. Bohnet, of the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society of Allegheny, Pa. The subject in the afternoon will be "The Great Pyramid in Egypt." and in the evening "The Wise and Foolish Virgins." All will be welcome and there will be no collection, whatever.

PARSIFAL PLEASED

Magnificent Production of Richard Wagner's Great Masterpiece Greeted By Largest Audience of the Season—Fine Scenery.

The largest audience of the present theatrical season witnessed the magnificent spectacle of Richard Wagner's "Parsifal" at the Academy of Music last night. It was not the class of play to win great applause, and there was little of it. It was all too solemn, too weird, to cause one to burst into demonstrations of pleasure or displeasure. It prompted conflicting emotions in the human breast; it was awe inspiring and pointed to a high moral lesson, the teaching of which was performed strikingly, vividly. The lines were not sung, as one might infer from the fact that it is a Wagnerian production, but the incidental music was of the Wagnerian school, and the two combined to make a wonderful presentation of the piece.

Mr. Connor as "Parsifal" was thought by many to have been the cleverest of the cast, though the other leads were also favorites, especially so as regards Miss Kealing as "Kundry." The part of "Klingsor" was also exceptionally well taken. The female members of the company are not much for looks, excepting "Kundry," possibly, but they handled their characters fairly well, unless beauty be regarded a prime requisite.

The staging of the piece was magnificent and the lighting effects have scarcely been excelled on the local stage. The scenery was very realistic, and the difficult situations were handled splendidly with these accessories.

It is gratifying to know that the house was a splendid one and that the management was well satisfied. The night engagement here is said to have equalled both the matinee and night performances in Charlotte, which sets great stakes by its prowess as a theatre town.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.

Thermometer Yesterday Went to 21 Degrees—Snow For Today.

Yesterday morning was perhaps the coldest of the Winter really. The thermometer may have gone lower on one other occasion, but a sharp, cutting wind from the North made it decidedly the most disagreeable. The thermometer was down to 21 at 8 o'clock in the morning while the mean for the day was 30. The maximum was 39. Last night about 10:30 o'clock the first sleet of the Winter fell. It was for a short time only, however, and soon gave way to a rain which continued during a greater part of the remainder of the night. The forecast of the weather man for today is snow with fresh, possibly brisk northwest winds.

THE CHARITY BALL.

Elaborate Affair for Worthy Benefit Tonight in Masonic Temple.

Social interest is centered in the charity ball to be given tonight in the Masonic Temple, under the auspices of the Ministering Circle. It promises to be the most pronounced social functions of the pre-Lenten period. Not only have a very large number of tickets been disposed of, but those who will attend will be abong the leaders of Wilmington society. An elegant ocurse supper will be served as one of the features of the ball. The Grand March opening the affair will be led by Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Giles.

At the request of the committee on arrangements for the ball, the Consolidated Company has kindly consented to keep a car in waiting at the Temple until the dance is over, then making a tour of the belt, so as all may return home at a minimum of expense and inconvenience.

ON THE GOLF LINKS.

Handicap Match Saturday Afternoon—Team Going to Charleston.

An 18-hole handicap golf tournament will be played Saturday afternoon on the links of the Cape Fear Country Club. It will be for men, and a special car will leave Front and Princess streets, for the players, at 2:30 P. M. An interesting match is assured.

Next Saturday the Wilmington Club will send a team to Charleston, S. C., to play a match with the Country Club of that city. The invitation was accepted by the Wilmington players several days ago. Later the Cherleston Club will return the engagement with a match on the local links.

Establish Fish Hatchery.

Washington correspondence Raleigh News and Observer: "The committee ond Merchant Marine and Fisheries of the House reported favorably to-day the bill for the establishment of 20 additional fish hatcheries to cost $20,000 each. Provision is made for the location of one of these hatcheries in North Carolina. Representative G. B. Patterson, who is a member of the committee, was successful in having North Carolina included among the States in which the new hatcheries are to be located in reason of Mr. Patterson's interest in the matter of the new hatchery will be located in his district, probably on the Cape Fear. There is already a large Federal station at Edenton."

IN THE LEGISLATURE

House Taken up With London Bill to Codify Laws as to Mental Anguish.

BILLS OF A LOCAL NATURE

Morton Introduced Two For New Hanover—Many Measures are Ratified—Bickett Bill Calling For Bond Issue to Committee.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 7.—Nearly the entire day in the House of Representatives was devoted to-day to a discussion of the London bill to codify the law in regard to negligence by telegraph companies in mental anguish cases for failure to deliver messages promptly, where matters of life and death are involved. The bill passed second reading by a vote 66 to 32.

The final reading went over until to-morrow Briefly stated, the bill provides that telegraph companies shall be liable in damages for mental anguish and suffering even in the absence of bodily injury for negligence in receiving, transmitting and delivering telegrams; nothing in the act shall abridge the rights or remedies now provided by the law against telegraph companies; that in suits under this act the jury may award such damages as they conclude resulted from negligence of telegraph companies, the court retaining the right to set aside the verdict. The bill was sent to the Senate.

In the House McRae introduced a bill to amend the charter of the Southern Presbyterian College at Red Springs.

Morton, to authorize New Hanover and Pender counties to construct a highway and erect a bridge between the counties near Castle Haynes.

Morton, to provide additional revenue and enhance the value of State and county bonds.

Morton, to incorporate the Tidewater Power Company.

Gordon, to amend the revisal relative to A. & M. College, creating a board of trustees for the college and relieving the Board of Agriculture from that duty.

Among the bills ratified to-day and now are laws are: To amend the charter of Red Springs; to increase the number of commissioners of Wilson county.

To enable the Y. M. C. A. of Wilmington to issue bonds. To punish temporary use or larceny of automobiles. To improve the efficiency of James Walker Memorial Hospital. To change dividing line between Lee and Whiteville township, Columbus county. To regulate pay of jurors in Onslow county.

Among the bills that passed final readings in the Senate were, to authorize Selma to issue bonds for electric lights. To incorporate Cove City, Craven county. To incorporate Clarendon, Columbus county. To incorporate Kingsdale, Robeson county. To amend the charter of East Lumberton and extend the town. To authorize bond issue for Maxton.

The Senate discussed at length the bill to require the Commissioner of Agriculture and members of the Board of Agriculture to be practical farmers, but took no action.

Then Senate declined to make the Bickett bill for mental defectives special order for next Wednesday and referred it to the appropriation committee.

The caucus of Democrats members of the General Assembly decided to night not to have any legislation at this session relative to the extension of the time limit of the grandfather's clause of the constitutional amendment. The matter was discussed for three hours, with this result.

The Senate was opened with prayer today by Dr. Moment at 10:30 o'clock. Among bills introduced were: Thorne, for the relief of W. M. Warren, sheriff of Nash county; preventing the sale of liquor around Maple Hill Church, in Nash county.

Petitions were presented from councils of the Jr. O. U. A. M. asking for a compulsory education law.

Among the bills passed was the House Bill incorporating the town of Garland, Sampson county; also incorporating Dell's School in Sampson county, and amending the charter of Grove Academy, in Duplin.

The House was opened at 10:30 with prayer by Dr. Marshall. Ex-Senator A. M. Scales, of Guilford, and Ex-Governor Jarvis were introduced and given the courtesy of the floor. The most of the day was taken up with the London telegraph bill and a large number of local measures.

JOKE ON THE JAILER

Prisoners Calmly Shoved Him in Corner and Walked Out.

(By Associated Press.)

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 7.—Two of the jail birds of Tyrrell county, at Columbia, N. C., are enjoying their liberty, gained in a most unusual way. When the jailer brought their dinner and entered the cell with it, Calston and Rhodes, who were confined pending trial at the next term of court, shoved him into a corner, stepped outside the cell, locked the door and calmly walked away without attracting attention. They are still at liberty.

MORSE STEAMSHIP SYNDICATE.

Mr. Charles W. Morse, of New York, is the head of the syndicate which has secured control of several of the more important coastwise steamship lines, including the Clyde Line running to Wilmington and other South Atlantic ports, and the Mallory Line, the steamers of which run as far as Galveston, Texas. Mr. Morse believes that in combination there is strength, and one of his plans in uniting the several lines is to secure economy of management in various ways, one of his ideas being that larger steamship lines can get operating and developing money cheaper than the smaller and more insignificant lines.

Mr. Morse is now endeavoring to have the stock and securities of his consolidated steamship companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange, and there is little doubt that he will ultimately succeed. The New York Journal of Commerce says of his latest plans:

"The more recent operations of Charles W. Morse in the coastwise steamship trade, which has been one of the larger transportation developments of the past year, according to information secured from a well informed source, have been with the idea of warping the securities of the companies which he and his associates contro', into such shape that money can be secured for purposes of expansion and improvement at a lesser rate of interest than has been paid in years gone by. A man who is familiar with Mr. Morse's plans and ideas quoted him as saying that "the ability to secure 4 per cent. money on mortgages is of more importance than ship subsidies."

"Mr. Morse, it is said, through his experiences in Maine early in his career, gained the idea that individual partnership or family ownership of steamship lines in this country was not conductive to such development as would adequately meet the needs of a rapidly growing commerce; for the reason, principally, that the public generally, and the money-lenders in particular, naturally would show a disposition to look askance on their mortgages and other securities, and when the critical moment arrived, and additional facilities were absolutely necessary, money could be secured only at an exorbitant rate of interest.

"It is now said that Mr. Morse's dominant idea is of the character above outlined, rather than further purchase of existing lines looking to a complete monopoly of the coastwise business.

"The disclaimer on Saturday of the ownership of the Old Dominion and Ocean Steamship companies' lines, that the rumors of the sale of their property to the combination had any basis in fact, seems to confirm these statements.

"The ease with which the English water transportation companies secure money on mortgages and other securities, and the high estimation in which such commercial paper is held in that country, are said to have impressed the head of the American coastwise combination favorably, leading him to believe that in time the same state of affairs might be brought into existence here. In other words, if the development of a particular service demanded the addition of a steamer costing $1,500,000, the company controlling it would find no difficulty in securing two-thirds of the amount on mortgage, possibly through the indorsement of the shipbuilding concern which secured the contract, at a reasonable rate of interest, say 4 or 5 per cent.

"Under the old conditions owners were compelled to go out among their friends and raise the entire amount, paying a price which effectually precluded the possibility of any profit accruing from the vessel's operation for a long period.

"It is said to be Mr. Morse's ambition to see the securities of his steamship companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

"Investigation shows that surprisingly few changes have been made by Mr. Morse and his first lieutenant in the steamship business, Calvin Austin, president of the Consolidated Lines, in the personnel of the man who actually manage the details of the combination's carrying business, most of the heads of departments having been retained under the new ownership. In many instances, it was said, additional authority has been given them.

"Big ships, even if fewer trips are made, seems to be the watchword under the new regime."

LEGISLATION THAT IS DANGEROUS.

The Star yesterday contained an editorial giving a word of warning against raidcal legislation that would reach the danger point and defeat the objects which the people of North Carolina really desire. In that connection we will be pardoned for publishing here a letter of commendation from one of Wilmington's most successful wholesale grocers and conservative business men, whose words we appreciate and to which we a[illegible] importance. The letter is as follows:

Wilmington, Feb. 7, 1907.

Editor Morning Star:

As a business man I want to thank you for your timely editorial in this morning's issue. It is exactly to the point, it seems to me. Not radical either way. Our people, of course, do not want to be, and are not, controlled by railroads or other corporations, and, on the other hand, they do not want by any means to lean towards confiscation of corporation property. In the long run that would hurt us more than it would hurt the corporations.

I believe there is almost a universal demand for lower passenger and freight rates as well as better accommodations. I honestly believe the railroads are trying their best to give these increased accommodations just as fast as possible. They have made some mistakes in the past, no doubt, but we have all done the same. It seems as if a reduction in passenger rates, of say one-fourth cent per mile, would be reasonable both ways and a fair reduction in western freights to our city would give satisfaction. The rates from here to the interior, it seems to me, do fairly well.

You are right in saying that we do not want to abuse the radical element in the Legislature. We want to appeal to them as reasonable men and much more will be done.

Once more thanking you for the editorial, I am,

Yours truly,
W. B. COOPER.

CANDIDATE FROM THE EAST.

We take the following from yesterday's Eastern Carolina News, of Kenansville:

"We see that Hon. Locke Craig will not be a candidate for Governor as was reported some weeks ago by the Asheville Citizen. Hon. W. W. Kitchin is not denying that he will be a candidate and his friends have about launched his candidacy. A great many friends in this section, of one of the East's tried and true sons, will bring his name before the people in due time. Who is he? His home is along the sea coast and he has been to Congress where he was an honor to all North Carolina and the whole South."

It might be added that his home is on the Cape Fear—the lower Cape Fear. No public announcement has yet been made by the distinguished gentleman ,but it might be said that he will be in the running when the time comes.

The Cape Fear country and the whole Eastern North Carolina should hold themselves in readiness to support the candidate who is hinted at in these writings.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—The Supreme Court will now decide which Judge wrote his writ right.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

—Another argument in favor of the Bickett bill, which proposes to provide for all the insane and mental defectives in the State and which has an unanimously favorable report from the joint legislative committee on insane asylums, is found in the recent burning to death of two insane persons in the county home of Pasquotank county.—Charlotte Observer.

—There is a pointer for the thinkers who theorize about government management of railways, government control of utilities and government meddling in general, in the government's experience in the construction of battleships. It cost the government $350,425 more to build the Connecticut than was paid to private shipbuilders for the Louisiana, a sister ship of the same size and equipment. That government is most economical that does nothing itself which it can hire done by private hands.—Philadelphia Record.

—Something more than suspicion is necessary to justify arrest and search in this State, as has been shown by the Court of Appeals. A man suspected of carrying concealed weapons had been arrested and searched without the formality of a warrant. The court held that there must first be a warrant charging crime before a search of the person could be legally made, and that in the absence of such warrant any search was illegal and any evidence found upon the person arrested could not be used against him. This is the law and it will hold. It works, however, to the advantage of the pistol toters.—Savannah News.

Grew
Miss Wallice's
Hair

AND WE CAN

PROVE IT.

EVERYBODY CAN HAVE NICE HAIR NOW, and you don't have to wait around weeks and months for results either. You will see improvements from the very first application.

Her Hair Takes on New Life and Grows 3 Feet Longer than it was Before.

KNOWLTON DANDERINE CO.
Gentlemen:
Your Danderine has made my hair grow over three feet longer than it was when I began its use.
It is now over five feet long and keeps right on growing, it seems to fairly crawl out of my scalp, it is so glossy and nice too.
Danderine will always have my best wishes.
Sincerely,
JEANETTE WALLICE.

This GREAT HAIR-GROWING REMEDY can now be had at all Druggists in three sizes, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

FREE To show how quickly Danderine acts we will send a large sample free by return mail to anyone who sends this advertisement to the Knowlton Danderine Co., Chicago, with their name and address and ten cents in silver or stamps to pay postage.

JEANETTE WALLICE,

Her Intense Sorrow.

He—I called to see you last evening and the servant told me you were not in. She—Yes; I was sorry to have missed you. He—I thought you must be; I heard you laughing upstairs in such grief stricken tones that I almost wept myself out of sympathy.

The Obstinate Cook.

Father—Cooking schools are of some use after all. This cake is delicious. Daughter—Is it? I thought it would be a terrible failure. Father—Why? Daughter—I told the cook exactly how to make it, and she went and made it some other way.

The Freshman.

"Is Reggy improving by his life in college?"

"Oh, yes; he's already learned to toe in with one foot!"—Detroit Free Press.

OLD FOLKS TESTIFY

The Aged and All Sons and Daughters of Aged People in Wilmington Should Be Interested.

For some time our local druggist, Mr. Robert R. Bellamy, has been recommending to all aged people of Wilmington his cod liver preparation, Vinol, to be the best strength creator in the world for old people. To all such the following will be of interest:

Mr. A. J. Baker, of Evansville, Ind., writes: "There is no other medicine in the world equal to Vinol for elderly people. I would not take a thousand dollars for the good it has done me."

Mrs. Sarah J. Windrom, of Chicago, Ill., writes: "Vinol is a Godsend to old people. I am 76 years old but I feel active and well today, thanks to the vitalizing effects of Vinal."

Mr. Joseph Banks, Decatur, Ill., writes: "I am in my 78th year, and owing to the cod liver oil preparation Vinol, I feel better and stronger than I have for years."

Vinol is not a patent medicine, but is a real cod liver preparation from which the useless, indigestible oil has been eliminated and tonic iron, a needful constituent for the blood, added.

Vinol tones up the digestive organs, makes rich, red blood, healthy body material, and sound, steady nerves. In this way it repairs worn tissues, checks the natural decline of the aged, builds up the run down, tired and debilitated, and never fails to replace weakness with strength.

If it fails we return to the purchaser every dollar paid for it. Robert R. Bellamy, Druggist.

NOTE—While we are agents for Vinol in Wilmington, it is now for sale at the leading drug store in nearly every town and city in the country Look for the Vinol agency in your town.

GOT HIS HAIR BACK.

Was Perfectly Bald When He Started to Use Newbro's Herpicide.

Frederick Manuell, Maryland block, Butte, Montana, bought a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, April 6, '06, and began to use it for entire baldness. The hair follicles in his scalp were not dead and in 20 days he had hair all over his head. On July 2 he writes, "and today my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any one could wish." Newbro's Herpicide works on an old principle and with a new discovery—destroy the cause and you remove the effect. Herpicide destroys the germ that causes dandruff, falling hair, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Two sizes—50 cents and $1.00.

Mother Goose.

The most popular children's book ever written was "Mother Goose's Melodies." Mrs. Goose, or Mother Goose, as she was familiarly called, was the mother-in-law of Thomas Fleet, a Boston printer early in the century. When his first child was born his mother-in-law devoted all her attention to the baby and, it is said, greatly annoyed Fleet by her persistent and not particularly musical chanting of the old English ditties she had heard in her childhood. The idea occurred to Fleet of writing down these songs and publishing them in book form. The oldest extant copy bears the date of 1719. The price marked on the title page was "two coppers." This account of the origin of Mother Goose is discredited by some critics, who declare that in 1697 Perrault published "Contes de ma Mere l'Oye," or "Stories of Mother Goose." The name Mother Goose was familiar in French folklore, being used by writers of this literature over a century before the time of Perrault.

The Status of a Meteorite.

A meteorite fell on a Vermont farm in 1896. It was a valuable meteorite, and the landlord at once stepped up and claimed it. "All minerals and metals on the land belong to me," he said. "That's in the lease."

But the tenant demurred. "This meteorite," he said, "wasn't on the farm, you must remember, when the lease was drawn up."

The landlord perceived the justice of that claim. He thought a moment. Then he said decisively, "I claim her as flying game."

But the tenant was ready for him. "She's got neither wings nor feathers," he said. "Therefore, as ground game, she's mine."

They continued their argument, and in the heat of it a revenue officer, arriving with a truck, proceeded to put the meteorite aboard. "I claim her for the government," he said, "as an article introduced into the country without payment of duty."

A Hotel Experience.

One fashionable hotel on Fifth avenue refuses to give any receipt for jewelry deposited in its safe or hold itself responsible for a greater amount than $250. Its explanation of this rule is based on an experience which seems excuse enough. Two guests of the hotel kept their valuables and money in the safe. They left them there when they went abroad, sometimes to stay for six months. Once the wife came back alone and drew out all the money and valuables. As she had often done so before the clerks gave the box to her as a matter of course. It was not until her husband had returned and wanted the same valuables that the hotel knew of their divorce. The husband brought suit and recovered all he claimed. Since that result of its confidence in its guests the hotel has limited its responsibility to $250.—New York Sun.

A Cholera Belt.

"The cholera belt," said a pale Anglo-Indian, "is not an imaginary girdle, like your pie belt, but a real girdle, which every foreign resident of India wears day and night. In winter the belt is made of heavy wool. In the summer it is made of light wool. It is never taken off. Even when you are sleeping in a temperature of 105 degrees, tossing and moaning and perspiring, despite the punkah that fans you from above, you still keep on your cholera belt, no matter what else you shed. Every Anglo-Indian has a couple of dozen cholera belts. They are said to prevent cholera, and I have no doubt they do so. At any rate, I never heard of any wearer of a cholera belt whom cholera ever seized upon."

The Light That Failed.

It was by an accident that Mr. Kipling got his famous title, "The Light That Failed." He had almost decided to call the novel "The Failure," although he was dissatisfied with this. One evening as he was sitting in his study reading by lamplight the light went suddenly down—almost failed, in fact. In a second Kipling jumped up, exclaiming excitedly, "By Jove, I've got it!" Pointing to the lamp, he said, "The Light That Failed."—London Standard.

The Man Fish.

Mathew Buchinger, mentioned in old English wonder books as the "man fish," was the most remarkable monstrosity of his time. He had neither hands, arms, feet nor legs. From his shoulders grew two finlike excrescences, and along his back there were several rows of scales. He had the lidless eyes characteristic of the fish species and a queer puckered mouth and no ears.

The Two Garricks.

George Garrick, brother of the celebrated David, was the latter's most devoted slave and laborious pack horse. On coming behind the scene he usually inquired, "Has David wanted me?" It being asked once how George came to die so soon after the demise of his famous brother, a wag replied, "David wanted him."

Love and Dyspepsia.

Young Wife (sobbing)—I am afraid, Karl, you have forgotten what the Herr Pastor said so beautifully at our wedding—how love believes anything, suffers anything— Young Husband—Oh, no; I haven't, but I didn't hear him say that love can eat anything.—Fliegende Blatter.

Self Made Man.

A rich financier said to one of our confreres who has more wit than wealth, "When I began business, sir, I had nothing."

"But those with whom you did business had something."—Independance Roumaine.

MISS EMMA RUNTZLER

Women troubled with fainting spells, irregularities, nervous irritability, backache, the "blues," and those dreadful dragging sensations, cannot hope to be happy or popular, and advancement in either home, business or social life is impossible.

The cause of these troubles, however, yields quickly to Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs It acts at once upon the organ afflicted and the nerve centers, dispelling effectually all those distressing symptoms. No other medicine in the country has received such unqualified indorsement or has such a record of cures of female ills as has

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Miss Emma Runtzler, of 631 State St., Schenectady, N. Y., writes:—"For a long time I was troubled with a weakness which seemed to drain all my strength away I had dull headaches, was nervous, irritable, and all worn out. Chancing to read one of your advertisements of a case similar to mine cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I decided to try it and I cannot express my gratitude for the benefit received. I am entirely well and feel like a new person."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most successful remedy for all forms of Female Complaints, Weak Back, Falling and Displacements, Inflammation and Ulceration, and is invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the Change of Life.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free and always helpful.

The President yesterday sent to the Senate the nominations of D. F. Currie to be postmaster at Raeford, N. C.

By a party vote to 20 to 11 the "Jim Crow" law was passed in the Missouri State Senate yesterday. The Democrats supported the bill and the Republicans opposed it.

Commissioner Maher announced in Washington yesterday that he would begin taking testimony in the Sheriff Shipp contempt case at Chattanooga at 10 o'clock next Tuesday.

Representative Murphy, of Missouri, introduced a bill in the House yesterday at Washington to repeal the act admitting Oklahoma to statehood, on the ground that the constitutional convention of Oklahoma and Indian Territory has failed to comply with the conditions of the joint statehood act.

Representative Spright of Mississippi, introduced a bill in the House at Washington yesterday providing that Secretary Shaw shall divide the cotton tax fund among the cotton growing States for use in Pensioning Confederate soldiers and their widows.

Speaker Cannon is still confined to his home, and will probably not be at the capitol for three or four days. He is able to be about the house, but is suffering from a severe co'd contracted nearly a week ago, and his physician has advised him to remain at home for several days.

E. H. Amilon, representing a Philadelphia electrical supply house, was found dead in bed at a hotel in Atlanta yesterday. He had been in Atlanta for several weeks on account of ill health and a verdict was given by the coroner's jury that death resulted from hemorrhage of the lungs.

The Indian Appropriation bill received rough handling at the hands of the Senate yesterday. The amendments of the committee and especially those suggested by the special committee which went to the Indian Territory last Summer to investigate conditions there, were nearly all rejected on points of order.

It was announced from the Jamestown Exposition officers in Norfolk yesterday that Mrs. Joseph Bryan, wife of the owner of the Richmond Times-Dispatch, has given the bronze statue of Captain John Smith, which will be erected at Jamestown Island under the auspices of the Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, of which Mrs. Bryan is a leading member.

There is danger of an outbreak of war in Central America, according to advices which have reached Washington, although, efforts at arbitration are being made in the city of San Salvador in the hope of preventing hostilities. To guard against any danger to American interests the State Departemnt has suggested to the Navy Department that one or more vessels be sent to Central America.

At Savannah yesterday the Federal grand jury for the Southern District of Georgia today, began an inquiry into the methods of the so-called turpentine trust. Assistant District Attorney Alexander Akerman presented a mass of documentary evidence in support of alleged violations of the Sherman anti-trust law. In addition to this a number of naval stores men of Savannah and Jacksonville were examined. It is expected the grand jury will report today.

At the suggestion of Senator Till'man the Senate yesterday agreed to a resolution calling on the Attorney General and the Secretary of Commerce and Labor to report whether Charles S. Hanks has at any time been paid from the public funds for any services rendered by him and what sums and for what services, also what reports he may have made. The resolution has reference to Mr. Hanks' employment in connection with the Inter-State Commerce Commission.

At Richmond, Va. yesterday the Supreme Court of Appeals handed down a decision in the case of Dr. Foster, superintendent of the Eastern asylum, for the Insane, which fully sustains the authority of the General Hospital Board of oust him, and puts Dr. Brunk in as legal superintendent, his successor in charge. The costs are put upon Dr. Foster. The court also issued a writ of prohibition against Judge Tyler, of the Williamsburg circuit.

Soap as a Medicine.

"When I was a boy," said the old man, "they often made me take a little soap as a medicine. It did me good.

"Soap was prescribed in the village for cramps, for sick headache, for a half dozen complaints. The people admitted that it was a nauseous dose, but on the other hand they pointed to its efficacy.

"When I was taken down my mother would cut from the cake of yellow soap in the kitchen a chunk about as big as a chestnut.

"'Now, sonny,' she would say, 'swaller this,' and she'd hold the yellow morsel in thumb and forefinger close to my lips.

"I'd begin to whimper. The smell of it and the idea of the lather that would form in my mouth—the lather I'd have to swallow—would fill me with despair. But my mother was inexorable. With stiff lips I'd take the soap into my mouth, I'd chew the soft and slippery stuff a little and then, with a groan and a dreadful gulp, I'd swallow it. Horrors!

"Horrors!" said the old man, smiling. "I can still taste those doses of soap that were so common in the village in my boyhood."

Jewish Thrift.

The Allgemeine Rundscau, Vienna, in an article on the Jewish question and anti-Semitism, has this to say as to Jewish thrift: "If we could only induce our own lower class to acquire the Jew's thrift, his industry, his sense of order, his scrupulous exactitude, his religious loyalty and love for his family the Jew on his darker side would appear far less dangerous to them than is at present the case. If one Sunday, by way of interesting experiment, one were to conduct an inquiry, into the station, wealth and religion of visitors to the various public houses, the following result would transpire: A large number of the guests would be Christians who would do far better to save than spend their money in alcoholic refreshments, gaming and tobacco. There might be a few Jews, but at the most they would content themselves with a cup of coffee."

An Ancient Hebrew Bible.

The highest amount ever offered by a single volume was tendered by a number of wealthy Jewish merchants of Venice to Pope Julius II. for a very ancient Hebrew Bible. It was then believed to be an original copy of the Septuagint version made from the Hebrew into Greek in 277 B. C., careful copies of the Hebrew text having been prepared at that date for the use of the seventy translators. The offer to Julius was £20,000, which, considering the difference between the value of money then and now, would in our day represent the princely sum of $600,000. Julius was at that time greatly pressed for money to maintain the holy league which the pope had organized against France, but in spite of his lack of funds he declined the offer.

Weight of a Lion.

"What does a lion weigh?" Ask that question of any acquaintance and see what he will say. Those who best know the look of the king of beasts and how small his lithe body really is will probably come furthest from the truth. About 300 to 350 pounds is a usual estimate. But this is below the mark. A full grown lion will tip the scales at no less than 500 pounds. Five hundred and forty pounds is the record for an African lion. His bone is solid and heavy as ivory. The tiger runs the lion very close. A Bengal tiger killed by an English officer scaled 520 pounds. A tiger of this size has, however, considerably greater muscular strength than the biggest lion.

Millers' Best Customers.

The forty odd million sacks of flour consumed yearly in the United Kingdom are mainly eaten in the form of bread. In the houses of the rich and in the best hotels bread is sparingly eaten, but among the middle classes and in workmen's homes it forms a considerable portion of the diet. As the latter class predominate and as their families are the most numerous, it is not improbable that the children under sixteen consume about three-fifths of the total flour sold in the United Kingdom. In a commercial sense, therefore, the children are the millers' best friends.—London Milling.

Big Differences.

"Wha.!" said the judge. "You expect me to send your husband to prison when you acknowledge that you threw five flatirons at him and he only threw one at you?"

"Yes; that's all right, judge," said the irate woman, "but, then, the one he threw hit me."

"That's all a bluff."
"Then you think they are only mock turtledoves?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"The Queen of Sicily."

Syracuse calls itself the capital of the south, but it has no cause to dispute pride of place with Palermo. The metropolitan city is superior in population, wealth and much else, but it is deficient in what its ancient and glorious rival has in such abundance. For Syracuse has the supreme charm of Greece in a way that no other city except Athens has. Not even in Corinth, nowhere in Hellas from Messana or Sparta in the south to Thebes in the north, is there any Hellenic town to compare with "the queen of Sicily." As a sanctuary, Delphi is far more impressive than anything in Sicily, as a national meeting place Olympia has no rival, but nowhere except at Athens is a Greek city to be seen today which has the proud record of the marvelous metropolis of the Sicilian Greeks, a city as great in power and wealth and beauty as Athena herself, and victor at last in the long and fatal rivalry which indirectly involved the passing of the Hellenistic dominion of all the lands washed by the Ionian and Mediterranean seas.—Century.

Barefooted Waiting Maids in Japan.

Unless there are ladies among the guests the wife and daughters of the host do not appear at dinner in Japan. Before the meal begins it is customary for them to bring small cups of tea and dainty confectionery, when they take their survey of the party. If gentlemen only are present the Japanese hostess disappears after the greeting is over and does not return until the guests are taking their departure. At a signal from the host barefooted waiting maids, dressed in graceful and prettily tinted kimonos, bring in lacquer tray, bearing tiny covered bowls. Before setting the trays on the table the maids sink gracefully to their knees and bend forward till their foreheads touch the floor. Then they serve dinner, which is of several courses.—Smith's Weekly.

A Lively Paper Cutter.

Here is a little story which the English papers tell and any one is at liberty to believe if he will. No affidavits go with it. When Lord Dufferin was viceroy of India the maharajah of Indor paid him a visit and asked as a memento an ivory paper cutter belonging to Lord Dufferin. He consented, the Indian left, and the viceroy never saw him until some months later when the maharajah introduced a fine young elephant into the room. A pile of newspapers lay at Lord Dufferin's side. The animal went up to them, cut them neatly with his tusks, which had been purposely sharpened, and laid them in a neat heap on the floor, ready for perusal.

Great Britain's Rainfall.

Rainfall is a condition which has much to do with our health. A wet district with a good deal of subsoil water, making houses damp, is a locality in which rheumatism and consumption are likely to prevail. Over England and Wales the average yearly rainfall is about thirty-four inches, in Scotland it reaches forty-six inches and in Ireland about thirty-eight inches. Possibly the wettest parts of Britain are in Cumberland, where the rainfall may attain 150 inches per year. One inch of rain on one acre of ground means a hundred tons of water.—London Graphic.

Heritages.

Leave children an accumulated fortune of memories and inspirations and examples and hopes, so that they are rich in brain and heart and soul and service. Then if you happen to leave them a fortune besides, if they have all these, the fortune will be shorn of its possibilities of evil and will become an instrument of higher and nobler good.—M. J. Savage.

EVELYN THAW'S PITIFUL STORY

cial then?"

"No, just general."

"Who suggested going away from the garden?"

"I did."

"The play was not interesting to you?"

"Not a bit," said the witness.

"How did you start when you went out?"

"I think that Mr. McCaleb and I were in the lead and Mr. Thaw and Mr. Beale followed."

"You saw White there?"

"I did."

"Did you see Mr. Thaw then?"

"Not until a minute or so afterward. He was directly in front of Mr. White, standing with his arms up in the air."

"Did you hear the shots fired?"

"Yes, immediately that I saw Mr. White I heard the shots."

"How many shots?"

"Three shots."

"What did you say?"

"I said to Mr. McCaleb: 'I think he has shot him.'"

"Did Thaw come over to where you were?"

"Yes, I asked him what he had done. He leaned over and kissed me and said: 'I have probably saved your life.'"

"What happened then?"

"I left."

"You said that you are the wife of the defendant?"

"Yes."

"When were you married?"

"On April 4, 1905."

"Where?"

"In Pittsburg, at the residence of Dr. McEwen, pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church."

Thus the story ran, with just here and there an interruption by Mr. Delmas to advise the girl to fix the dates of the various happenings, and always to tell just what she had told Harry Thaw when he asked her to become his wife. It was through the fact that she had "told everything to Harry" that she was permitted under the rules of law to give her story to the jury.

Thaw sat pale, but brave-faced beside his counsel when his wife took the stand. The two exchanged glances and the faintest of smiles played about the firmly set lips of the girl. She wore the same blue long-coated dress she had worn each day of the trial. About her neck was a flat turned down collar such as little boys wear, caught together by a little black tie in front. Her hair, braided and looped well down on her neck, was caught with a big black ribbon bow, the ends of which peeped out in dark relief from behind the cheeks that were pale at first, but mounted crimson when she was told to give all the details of her experience with the man who fell a victim to her husband's pistol.

Mrs. Thaw wore the flat, black velvet hat, trimmed only with one little bunch of violets, which had become familiar as a part of her costume. She was unveiled, however, for the first time, and her youth and beauty were remarked by everyone. Masses of black hair waved from beneath the velvet brim of her hat and helped form the frame for the girlish face of almost perfectly moulded features. The brown eyes looked through long black lashes. The brows were symmetrically arched.

In the sympathy-impelling story of the girl, the girlish fascination of voice of softest quality, yet ringing clear in enunciation, the court room lost view of the prisoner. But when there came a halt in the girl's fight against tears, the people who had gazed unceasingly at her lowered their eyes as if their stare might not bring her the composure she finally won. They then saw Harry Thaw again. His whole frame shaking, he sat with his head buried in his hands, a handkerchief covering his eyes. Where the defendant sits he is all but shielded from the jury. Bent over the table as he sobbed, he could not be seen at all. Thus Thaw sat for many minutes and when he finally lifted his head his eyes were red and swollen.

Even if they could have seen, the jurors would have had no eyes for the prisoner. They, too, had turned their gaze from the witness as the tears came to her voice as well as to her eyes, and each man of the twelve seemed intent upon some object on the floor beneath them. Justice Fitzgerald looked out through the long grated windows. The scene and the story marked a new precedent in the history of criminal proceedings in New York city. Old court attendants gave their ready assent to this.

Mrs. Thaw was still on the stand, her direct examination uncompleted, when the day was done. Only during the afternoon she was excused for an hour while Lawyer Frederick Longfellow was sworn to fix the date of certain letters written to him by Harry Thaw subsequent to the revelations Miss Nesbit had made to him in Paris.

The girl had identified the writing, but the court held that the date must also become a matter of competent evidence. Mrs. Thaw seemed to appreciate the relief this incident offered, although during the hour and a half recess for luncheon she had recovered from the fatigue of the two hours spent in the witness chair during the morning session. As she left the stand for the recess she walked unsteadily and passing back of the jury box ran the fingers of her left hand along the walls as a blind person might.

The letters which eventually were offered in evidence after much objection by Mr. Jerome and a flood of argument by opposing counsel during the afternoon sitting of the court, are regarded as corroborative of Mrs. Thaw's testimony today, which she often declared, in response to objection offered from time to time by the district attorney, was a repetition of the reasons she had given Thaw for refusing to become his wife.

They also offered as tending to show the state of mind of the defendant just after he had heard from her own lips the story of the girl he loved and her relations with the man it is claimed he killed as evidence of insanity, inherited in part, and induced by a stress of circumstances.

The letters were written by Thaw to Mr. Longfellow as his attorney. They told of his coming marriage with Miss Nesbit and of the "row they want to raise." Disconnected and jerky, jumping from subject to subject, they nevertheless breathe the love he bore the girl and he wantd among other things that provision should be made that in the event of his death all his property should go to her. The letters constantly refer to "that blackguard" who poisoned her as a girl, and say that her name was falsely connected with two others besides "that blackguard." Only two of a half dozen offered in evidence were read during the afternoon. The others probably will be presented when court convenes tomorrow, and Mrs. Thaw is again called to the stand. The completion of the direct examination of the prisoner's wife will possibly require all of tomorrow's sessions. There is an impression that Mr. Delmas may strive to have it occupy the entire day in order that the young woman may take advantage of the adjournment over Saturday and Sunday to recover from her fatigue and be prepared for the cross-examination of District Attorney Jerome.

In testifying today Mrs. Thaw was not allowed to state the names of certain persons, but by consent of counsel she gave them in whispers to Mr. Jerome "in order," as Mr. Delmas said, "that the prosecution may have the fullest possible opportunity to refute any of her statements if he can."

While most of the afternoon session was given over to the argument as to the admissibility of letters written by Thaw to Mr. Longfellow, Mrs. Thaw continued for a long time the narration of her story. She told how she came back from Europe a month ahead of Thaw. During that month friends of Stanford White had told her many stories about the young Pittsburg millionaire and when he returned to America she refused to see him except in the presence of a third person. When he asked her why she acted so she told him the stories.

One was that Thaw had put a girl into a bathtub and turned scalding water on her. Another was that he was addicted to the use of morphine and a third declared that he had tied girls to bed posts and beaten them.

"He looked very sad," she said, and told me they had been making a fool of me. He said he understood why it was done. I afterward got so many conflicting accounts from the persons who had told me the stories, and I heard their reputations were so bad, that I finally told Mr. Thaw I did not believe the stories. He said: "You know I never lied to you, and he never has."

The girl paid other tributes to her husband, to save whose life she braved all.

"When I told him the story in Paris," she said, "he came to me and picked up the hem of my skirt and kissed it and said he would always love me. He nearly always called me his ange'. We sat together that night until daylight talking the matter over. The effect on Harry was terrible.

"Stanford White sent me to school in New Jersey in October, 1902 and early in 1903 I became ill. The doctors came and said an operation was necessary. They told me I was very sick, but did not say what was the matter. Mr. Thaw came to see me and was the last person, except the doctors, whom I saw before being placed under the influence of an anesthetic. He had been told it was dangerous for me to talk. So he came quietly in and kneeled down by the bed and kissed my hand and looked at me for a moment and went out.

"When I recovered I found he had made arrangements for my mother to take me abroad to recuperate. It was while we were in Paris on this trip that he proposed to me."

While the Thaw jury was on its way to court this morning a snow shoveler in the street shouted "Vote for Thaw." He was promptly arrested and taken before Justice Fitzgerald in chambers and allowed to go after a severe reprimand.

Interest in London.

London, Feb 8.—The case of Harry K. Thaw is attracting almost as much interest here as in the United States. The newspapers this morning published many columns of the evidence given yesterday.

RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.

House Passed Measure Carrying $83,000,000 Appropriations.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Washington, Feb. 7.—The House today completed and passed the river and barbor appropriation bill carrying more than $83,000,000 with sundry amendments, all of which was suggested by the chairman of the committee, Mr. Burton, of Ohio. Among the important amendments adopted were:

Improving Bay Ridge and Red Hook channe's, of New York, the Secretary of War being authorized in his discretion to prosecute the improvement in said channels with a view to obtaining first depth of 35 feet and subsequently increasing it "to the full" depth allowed in the adopted project as the available depth in the entrance channel to said harbor shall require. For continuing the improvements and for the maintenance of the Chicago river $200,000, being an increase of $180,000.

A survey of the Missouri river was authorized from its mouth to Sioux City, also a survey of the Savannah river, Georgia, for 30 miles below Augusta.

A bill amending the denatured alcohol bill was passed.

The naval appropriation bill was taken up and made the continuing order.

The House at 5:35 P. M. adjourned.

What Fishing Develops.

To those who are satisfied with a superficial view of the subject it may seem impossible that the diligence and attention necessary to a fisherman's success can leave him any opportunity while fishing thoughtfully contemplate any matter not related to his pursuit. Such a conception of the situation cannot be indorsed for a moment by those of us who are conversant with the mysterious and unaccountable mental phenomena which fishing develops. We know that the true fisherman finds no better time for profitable contemplation and mental exercise than when actually engaged with his angling outfit. It will probably never be possible for us to gather statistics showing the moving sermons, the enchanting poems, the learned arguments and eloquent orations that have been composed or constructed between the bites, strikes or rises of fish. But there can be no doubt that of the many intellectual triumphs won in every walk of life a larger proportion has been actually hooked and landed with a rod and reel by those of the fishing fraternity than have been secured in any one given condition of the nonfishing world.—"Fishing and Shooting Sketches," by Grover Cleveland.

Calling the Chickens.

In England the calls chuck, chuck, or coop, coop, prevail; in Virginia, coo-che, coo-che; in Pennsylvania, pee, pee. This latter call is widely employed, being reported from Germany, Spain (as pi, pi), Bulgaria, Hungary, Bavaria and the Tyrol. In the Austrian province the term is used in combination—thus: Pulla, pi, pi. The call pullele, pul, pul, also occurs there. In some parts of Germany the poultry are called with tick, tick; in Prussia, put, put, and young chickens with tuk, tuk (Grimm), and schip, schip, the latter being an imitation of their own cry. In eastern Prussia hens are called with kluckschen, kluck, kluck; also tippchen, tipp, tipp. Grimm records also pi, pi, and tiet, tiet. Weinhold reports from Bavaria bibi, bibeli, bidli; pi, pi, and pul, pul. In Denmark the call is pootle; in Holland, kip, kip; in Bohemia, tyoo; in Bulgaria, tiri, tiri.

Playmates.

Pastor—Do you ever play with bad little boys, Johnny? Johnny—Yes, sir. Pastor—I'm surprised, Johnny! Why don't you play with good little boys? Johnny—Their mammas won't let 'em.—London Tit-Bits.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

The Red Springs Citizen says that Mr. John Livingston, who lives a few miles from Red Springs, last week killed his "big hog", the net weight of which was 509 pounds, and two others weighing respectively 328 and 225 pounds.

—Lumberton Robesonian: There are about 125 cases to be heard at this court, among them being several capital cases. There is a fairly good attendance for the opening day with the weather we are having. The train was late and the judge was delayed.

—Goldsboro Argus: The suggestion of the Argus, the other day, of an electric railway to Seven Springs, for freight service as well as for the retail trade of the city, is meeting with considerable favor—and this, we hope, will soon crystalize into something like a concert of action towards securing such a road.

—Greensboro, Feb. 5: According to a prearranged plan, Cresly M. Sykes, of Enfield, and Mrs. Jennie Meyers, of Roanoke, Va., met at the Allen House here today and were married by 'Squire D. H. Collins. As stated in this morning's Observer, the wedding is the result of a newspaper advertisement.

—Mount Olive Tribune, Feb. 7: It was discovered yesterday morning that a large iron safe in the law office of Attorney J. D. Langston had been robbed during the past few days of several notes and other valuable papers belonging to Mr. H. G. Williamson. The combination had been tampered with, and a lock box in the safe, which held the stolen papers, was prized open.

—Mount Ollive Tribune: Mr. Arthur Whitely, who lived here several years ago and edited the Mount Olive Advertiser, was married to Mrs. May Wallace-Potter in the Episcopal church at Kinston last Saturday evening. The bride is the widow of the late Sheriff Potter of Greene county, and is well known in Mount Olive. Mr. Whitely is now superintendent of the Conetoe Oil Mills.

—Lumberton Robesonian, Feb. 7: The two children of Lelia Blake, colored, were burned to death at their home near Red Springs, on Mr. C. S. Watson's place, Wednesday morning. The children, aged three and five years, were locked in the house by the mother, who went on a visit to her father's home, and their clothing ignited from the stove. When the mother returned, the children were found dead, having been roasted alive during her absence.

—Kenansville News: From all sections of the trucking belt the reports come that the strawberry crop will be short this Spring. The farmers are at last seeing their mistake of growing too many acres. Here is another illustration of supply and demand The supply was every year greater than the demand hence the death knell to the berry industry in Eastern Carolina. The farmers are going into the oldl reliablle way of farming and will pay more attention to raising their own supplies. For several years the berry growers made money. It came easy and went too easy, too.

—Sampson Democrat: We did not state in last issue that Ex-Sheriff Aman had left the county immediately upon the execution of his assignment, for the reason that we had hoped that he could show himself up in such a light as to be able to remain with his friends who had stood by him and trusted him. He is away, however, and up to this time his whereabouts are unknown to the public. His Honor instructed the grand jury to make a careful and full investigation of his office and the whole matter, telling them that the law made it their duty to do so. Not only of this office, but all other offices of the county.

—Lumberton Robesonian: On Sunday, January 27, large quantities of whiskey were being sold around town by various negroes. It turns out that this whiskey, about one half of a barrel, was stolen on Saturday night from a car of the Seaboard at the depot. Numbers of the hands here at work on the Seaboard and the new railroad were drunk on Sunday. Four of the negroes have been apprehended, were tried by Mayor Floyd and are now in jaill. Their names are Ches. Love, Young Allen, William Wilson and Ben McLeod. Ches. Love gave bond. The others are now in jail.

—Kenansville News: News reaches us that two negroes became involved in a difficulty while at work for the Rowland Lumber Company at Bowden last Friday and one negro shot the other which caused his death. The murderer escaped and from last report he had not been captured. It is further reported that it is a common thing to see the coons working around the mill at Bowden with pistols in their pockets. No wonder such crimes are committed in Duplin when negroes are allowed to brandish pistols along the roads and even on the streets of some towns and nothing is ever done with them. This negro who drew his gun in the presence of several men Friday and deliberately shot another negro down, walked away after the shooting to some other section. The officers of the law and people generally ought to put a stop to this pistol toting business.

—Lumberton Robesonian: The Virginia and Carolina Southern has brought condemnation proceedings against the Seaboard to condemn the strip of land on the Seaboard's right of way of which they are now in possession and on which they have laid their tracks. This will be heard here before W. H. Humphrey, Clerk of Superior Court, Thursday. The Seaboard Air Line Railway Company and the Carolina Central Railway Company have brought an injunction against the Virginia and Carolina Southern Railroad Company, Atlantic Improvement Company, Town of Lumberton, C. N. Blue and A. W. McLean, to enjoin them from interfering in any way with the Seaboard's right of way in town or within one mile thereof. These papers were signed by Judge Council and are returnable here before Judge Webb on February 9th. They have all been served upon the several defendants.

Hank White Gave the Tip.

Hank White, the minstrel, lived in Reading, Vt., for many years. He was very fond of horse races, and rarely missed any of the meetings in Windsor or Rutland county. Once he attended a breeders' meeting at Rutland. The breeders' meetings were famous and attracted people from New York, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and all over Vermont. On this particular day Hank was seated in the grand stand, one of 5,000 people.

"Hod" Fish Ira, a well known character, was driving his horse Belvidere, a very large bay horse, with not too much speed, but the owner had an idea that he was a wonder. It was in the free for all race. All the horses except Belvidere had passed the grand stand almost neck and neck on the first half. It was a beautiful race. Trailing behind about twenty rods came Belvidere, the driver urging him on to better efforts, and when he was in front of the grand stand Hank stood up and yelled at the top of his voice: "Take the first turn to the left, Hod; all the others have gone that way." Hod drove Belvidere to the barn.—Boston Herald.

Power of Words.

Words have not their import from the natural power of particular combinations of characters or from the real efficacy of certain sounds, but from the consent of those who use them and arbitrarily annex certain ideas to them, which might have signified with equal propriety by any other.—Oliver Cromwell.

Persistence.

The way to reach or to attain to anything is to bend oneself toward it with all one's might, and we approximate it just in proportion to the intensity and the persistency of our effort to attain it.—Success Magazine.

A Hard Cut.

Mrs. Newcast—I am thinking of taking a short holiday and visiting some of the scenes associated with my ancestors. Mrs. De Bleu Blood-Cutting—Oh, but slumming is so horribly out of date nowadays!

Where to Have a Boil.

Thomas Bailey Aldrich, commenting once upon the trials of Job, remarked that the only proper place to have a boil was between "John" and "O'Reilly."

For Nervous, Over-worked and "Run Down" Women

Women in an exhausted, nervous state, due to over-work, continuous social functions or a general "run down" condition of health, often wonder why tonics and emulsions fail to benefit them. The reason is plain. Tonics and emulsions are good in their place, but they cannot build up the body until the nerves have been toned and quieted.

There's only one remedy that can restore health to women in this exhausted, nervous condition, because it acts directly upon the nerves.

Rexall

Americanitis Elixir

is the only remedy of its kind in existence. As its name implies, it's a specific for the peculiar exhausted nervous conditions resulting from the continuous rush and tension under which Americans live. This remedy fills an important gap in the line of medicines.

Rexall Americanitis supplies to the body just those elements which Nature cannot supply in sufficient quantities to meet the unnatural drain upon the nervous system.

Phosphorus in soluble form is the basis of this splendid nerve food. Thousands of women have been saved from nervous prostration by the prompt use of Rexall Americanitis. To all conditions of nervous derangement, exhaustion and debility it brings permanent relief.

The Story of Rexall

REX means "king," and the combination makes REXALL "king of all"

We have proven time and time again that Rexall Remedies are kings above all others.

For more than two years an expert travelled all over the world in search of extraordinary remedies. Whenever he heard of a wonderful cure of any nature he did not rest until he personally could see the effect of the prescription used. Where he found the remedy perfect he purchased the prescription, but it was never used as a Rexall remedy until the properties had been thoroughly analyzed by the chemists and physicians of the United Drug Company.

THE COTTON MARKET

By Wire to The Morning star.

New York, Feb. 7.—The cotton market had another sharp bulge early in the day, but most of the advance was lost later in the session with the close barely steady at a decline of 2 points, to an advance of 6 points. Sales for the day were estimated at 150.000. The opening was firm at an advance of 7 to 11 points in response to higher cables. Liverpool being 7 to 9 1-2 points higher on the near months at the hour of the local opening when due to come about 1 1-2 to 3 points higher on the New York close of the previous day, while the English spot market was 10 points higher on sales of 12,000 bales. Some stop-loss orders were uncovered by the initial advance which carried March to 9.47 and May to 9.62 or about 9 to 11 points net higher, but at this level realizing by recent buyers checked the upward movement and with the estimates for to-morrow's receipts a little heavier, prices sagged off during the middle session Toward the close professionals became a little more aggressive on the short side and last prices were at the lowest point of the session. Port receipts for the day were light, compared with recent figures and about 7.000 bales under the day's exports. Some wires reported higher grades offering a little more freely but stated that holders continued firm in their views and Southern spot markets officially reported were unchanged to 1-8c higher.

Receipts at the ports to-day were 35,670 bales, against 53,253 last week and 17.938 bales last year. For the week 250,000 bales, against 304,880 last week and 138 314 last year. To-day's receipts at New Orleans were 10,461 bales against 5.659 last year, and at Houston 6,804 bales against 4,150 last year.

Spot cotton closed steady, five points higher. Middling uplands 11.05; middling gulf 11.30; no sales. Futures closed barely steady.

Rising From the Grave.

A prominent manufacturer, Wm. A. Fertwell, of Lucama, N. C., relates a most remarkable experience. He says: "After taking less than three bottles of Electric Bitters, I feel like one rising from the grave. My trouble is Bright's disease, in the Diabetes stage. I fully believe Electric Bitters will cure me permanently, for it has already stopped the liver and bladder complications which have troubled me for years." Guaranteed at R. R. Bellamy's, druggist. Neighbors Got Fooled.

"I was literally coughing myself to death, and had become too weak to leave my bed; and neighbors predicted that I would never leave it alive; but they got fooled, for, thanks be to God, I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery. It took just four one dollar bottles to completely cure the cough and restore me to good sound health," writes Mrs. Eva Uncapher, of Grovertown, Stark Co., Ind. This King of cough and cold cures, and healer of throat and lungs, is guaranteed by R. R. Bellamy, Druggist. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

IT'S IN THE DRAFT.
The secret of the fuel-saving qualities of this Buck's hot blast heater lies in the draft construction. It is so made as to allow large quantities of heated air to pass over the upper surface of the burning coal, thus supplying oxygen to the rising gasses, which are then converted into heating power.
Simple, isn't it? And yet it's new principle in stove building—not to be found elsewhere.
This stove will reduce your coal bill nearly one-third.
Let us tell your of its many advantages.

EVELYN THAW'S PITIFUL STORY

Chorus Girl Wife of Harry Thaw Revealed Her Life to Jury

GIRL CHOKED WITH EMOTION

Told of Her Wrongs at Hands of Stanford White Whose Life Finally Was the Forfeit—Thaw's Frame Shook.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

New York, Feb. 7.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw told her story to-day. To save the life of her husband, charged with the murder of Stanford White, she told the world the innermost secrets of her soul, a portrayal for which a sanctuary were a more fitting place than the crowded, gaping court room. It was the same story she told Harry Thaw in Paris, in 1903, when he asked her to become his wife, the confession of one who felt there was an insurmountable barrier to her ever becoming the bride of the man she loved.

In the big witness chair she appeared but a slip of a girl and she told the pitiful story of her eventful young life in a frank, girlish way. When tears unbidden came to her big downeyes, and slowly trickled their way down her scarlet cheeks, she strove in vain to keep them back. Though the lump in her throat at times seemed about to smother her, she forced the words from the trembling lips and by a marvelous display of courage, which took her willingly to her staggering ordeal, she shook off a depression which once threatened to become an absolute collapse.

As the young wife unfolded the narrative of her girlhood, and told the early struggles of herself and mother to keep body and soul together, of how gaunt poverty stood ever at the door, and how she finally was able to earn a livlihood by posing for photographers and artists, she won the murmured sympathy of the throng which filled every available space in the big court room.

Then came narration of the wreck of that girlhood at 16 years of age. It was the story of her meeting with Stanford White, the story of the sumptuous studio apartment whose dingy exterior gave no hint of the luxurious furnishings within; of a velvet covered swing in which one could swing until the slippered toes crashed through the paper of a Japanese parasol swung from the ceiling; the story of a glass of champagne, of black and whirling sensations and of mirrored bedroom walls. In short, she told all the story about her unfortunate relations with Stanford White, who was later to be killed by her husband..

The stillness of the crowd which was big, bustling, shoving and snarling over some especially coveted seat when court convened, was its own tribute to the effect of the girl's story. Into the narrative there entered nothing of the woman of the world. A girl in face and figure, Mrs. Thaw was still a girl as she withstood an ordeal which might well have startled into terror a woman of maturer years.

In the narrative she injected many little touches of a young girl's hopes and disappointments. Of her early life she related how her mother had gone from Pittsburg to Philadelphia to secure assistance and how she and her brother Howard, the brother who has been in court many days, but not once has gone near his sister, were placed on a train by friends and sent to their mother. She recalled that the two little travelers had trouble with the conductor, who wanted to put their cat out of the car. But, she naively added, they held fast possession to it, just the same.

She told of her arrival in New York, of her life there, and eventually the acceptance by her mother of the thrice refused invitation of a girl of the theatre to meet some of her friends at luncheon. The girl's mother told Evelyn's mother they were people in New York Society and perfectly proper, else she would not let her girl go with them.

"Was Mr. Thaw excited when you told him these things?"

"Yes, he was excited, and walked up and down the room. We sat up all night. He said it was not my fault, that no one could blame me, and that I was only an unfortunate girl and that he didn't think any the less of me; he would marry me anyway."

"Did he offer to marry you again?"

"Yes, and I told him that if I did marry him the friends of Stanford White would laugh at him and laugh at me as they suspected our relations if they did not know?"

The witness told Thaw that it would not be well to marry on account of his family. He persisted that he wished to marry her.

Mrs. Thaw declared Stanford White was at the Cafe Martin the night of the shooting. She and Thaw dined there and she saw White. Mrs. Thaw said the note she wrote her husband in the Cafe Martin related to Stanford White. This evidence was later stricken out.

Mrs. Thaw gave testimony corroborating that of other witnesses as to the details of the shooting of Stanford White.

Mrs. Thaw said she sat in the seats with Mr. Truxton Beale and Mr. McCaleb. Her husband went to the back of the theatre, she said. He was away about 15 minutes, when he returned and took a seat beside her.

"How long did he remain at your side?"

"About half an hour."

"What was his manner then?"

"It seemed to be the same as ever."

"Did you talk about anything spe-

CANAL CONTRACT HANGING FIRE

Chief Engineer Stevens Threatens to Resign if Private Contract is Let.

IT WILL ROB HIM OF GLORY

President Disposed to Accept W. J. Oliver's Bid, But Will Take Fortnight to Make Up His Mind About Matter.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Washington, Feb. 7.—The Administration has been brought face to face with the alternative of rejecting all bids for the construction of the Panama canal by contract or losing the services of Chief Engineer John F. Stevens. This is the reason for the delay of President Roosevelt, Secretary Taft and Chairman Shonts of the Canal Commission in acting on the Olliver bid. An effort has been made to get Mr. Stevens to change his mind, but he has continued obdurate and the indications are that the administration will accede to his request and the construction will be continued by the government.

This information in regard to the position taken by Mr. Stevens comes from a source that cannot be doubted, but it has created some surprise on account of testimony given by Mr. Stevens before the Senate Committee on Inter-oceanic Canals a year ago. He then said that he favored building the canal by contract. He was of the opinion that contractors would be in a better position to deal with the question of laborers.

Since then he has gone over the canall plans carefully and he now expresses the belief that the canal can be constructed by the government within a period of ten years. His friends have advised him that if a contract is let for construction he will be robbed of the credit of building this great waterway. Frequent exchanges of cablegrams between Washington and the Isthmus have resulted in a demand by Mr. Stevens for the acceptance of his resignation if the contract is awarded.

It is asserted by certain Senators who have taken an unusual interest in all matters relating to the canal that if one of the bids for canal construction is accepted it will mean that the administration has determined to dispense with Mr. Stevens as the director of the canal construction.

Secretary Taft held a conference today with the President regarding the Panama canal contract for the purpose of determining upon a course of proceedure. The President and the Secretary had before them the complete bid of William J. Oliver and his associattes for the construction of the canal. After the conference Secretary Loeb gave out the following statement:

"The bid of the Oliver-McDonald-Pierce combination has been received and examined and meets the formal requirements. Mr. Paul D. Cravath, on behalf of his clients, the McArthur-Gillespie combination, has requested a hearing before final action is taken. In addition to granting the hearing the Secretary of War and the Isthmus Canal Commission will makek as thorough an examination as possible in the qualifications, experience, business standing and achievenments of Mr. Oliver and his associates, and into the responsibility of the sureties. Secretary Taft and the Commission will probably need a fortnight to complete full examination of the bid and report to the President."

Secretary Taft later in the day made known to Mr. Oliver the result of his talk with the President and framed a letter to Judge O'Brien, Oliver's counsel, informing him just how the matter stood. This letter stated, among other things that the President was very much inclined to give the contract to Mr. Oliver and his associates, but that he would not surrender his right to reject all bids even after the further hearing has been given to the McArthur-Gillespie combination. Mr. Oliver left here tonight for his home in Knoxville.

TO LET UP ON RAILROADS.

Rumor From Washington Helps Prices On New York Exchange.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

New York, Feb. 7.—A hesitating and irregular advance broadened out in the final hour of to-day's stock market into a more animated and comprehensive rise than has occurred at any time since the decisive downward tendency of prices set in. The inspiration for the moment came largely in rumors of Washington origin of a new development there that would relieve the corporation world from the sense of hostility on the part of the administration of the goevrnment. Up to that time there were long periods of lethargy in the trading and the same lack of follow-up to the movement that has left the market without definite tendency for several days. There was an absence of the weakness in individual stocks which has been an unsettling influence in recent markets even when the general tendency was upward, and this was in favor of the market.

Prospects for the proposed increase in freight rates which are being canvassed extensively in the railroad world gave a subject for continued discussion. This served to counteract to same extent the showing of decreases in net earnings of railroads by reason of increased operating cost, which has now became a general tendency.

Give me the girl with ravishing eyes,
And sweet, red lips;
She is better than mansions of stone,
Or temples of brick,
For joy and pleasure there will be,
If she takes Rocky Mountain Tea.

LIFE SAVERS WERE HELPLESS

Unknown Schooner Ashore At Hatteras Went to Pieces During Night

HER ENTIRE CREW PERISHED

Were Clinging to Masts and Were Probably Frozen to Death Before Ship Was Swallowed Up—Bound to Wilmington.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 7.—The unknown three masted schooner driven ashore during Tuesday night on the southwest corner of the inner Diamond Shoals off the treacherous Hatteras coast, went to pieces last night and when life savers from the Hatteras and Creed's Hill life saving stations arose at day break today to renew their efforts to rescue the crew of the vessel there was no trace of the ill-fated schooner to be seen. There seems to be no doubt whatever of the loss of all the crew, who were seen yesterday clinging to the rigging of the ship frantically displaying signals of distress, but whose rescue by the life savers was prevented by the elements. The position of the vessel as seen yesterday after she struck on the shoals would lead to the impression that she was bound southward.

The vessel is believed to have carried a crew of from eight to ten men, and possibly more, and those who were not washed overboard and drowned are believed to have been frozen to death while lashed to the masts and rigging before the vessel went completely to pieces and everything went into the ocean.

The three-masted schooner M. V. B. Chase, owned by Pendleton Brothers, of New York, bound from that port for Wilmington, N. C., with a cargo of salt, was due off Hatteras about the time the wreck there was reported. Mr. Pendleton fears that the vessel wrecked may be his.

The schooner William H. Bailey, which loaded coal at Newport News for the South, is said also to have been due off Hatteras about this time. It is thought that the identity of the vessel may eventually be ascertained by the washing ashore of wreckage.

Up to a late hour tonight nothing could be learned at Cape Hatteras to identify the schooner that was lost on Diamond Shoals last night.

FORAKER SLAPS AT ROOSEVELT.

Overman Causes Him to Allude to Booker Washington as Senator.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Washington, Feb. 7.—Five witnesses were examined today in the Brownsville inquiry before the Senate Committee on Military Affairs. All were members of Company D, of the discharged battalion of negro soldiers, except the last on the stand, former Sergeant Luther T. Thornton, of Company B. He testified that when aroused by the firing on the night of August 13, he was under the impression that the barracks were being fired upon by people of the town, and that a similar opinion was expressed by other members of his company. He said the reports of fire arms sounded to him like revolvers and shot guns. He told of the call to arms, and of the inspections, of hearing that company C's gun racks had been broken. He was cross-examined sharply about the possibility of a soldier getting out of the reservation in the night without being detected and said this could be done, but he did not think the man could get his arms and get out. It was pointed out that the man already had ammunition, and the witness replied that this ammunition had to be accounted for at inspections and if any were used the loss would be discovered. He said he had not heard that bullets from army ammunition had been found in the town until after the arrival of Major Blocksom to make an inspection for the War Department.

Sergeant Fraser was recalled, and he corrected his testimony of yesterday by saying that he had surrendered his ammunition at Fort Reno instead of at Fort Brown. He said he had noticed his error in a newspaper report of the proceedings.

The next witness called for by Senator Foraker was Winter Washington, and Senator Overman asked if he said Booker Washington.

"No," said Mr. Foraker, "Booker Washington is too busy attending to his Senatorial duties to come here." He referred to the interest of Booker T. Washington in the question of having a negro appointed to a Federal position in Ohio, patronage which had been regarded as belonging to the Senators from Ohio. There was nothing unusual in Winter Washington's testimony. He was a member of Company D, and his story was not unlike those told by his former comrades. His idea of the Brownsville affray, however, was that "Mexican greasers and Texas cowboys" had done the shooting in order to make trouble for the negro soldiers. The other witnesses were Sergeant Reese, who was called for cross examination and Corporal A. H. DLockout. Nothing of importance was brought out.

Emma Poarch killed his wife in a very sensational manner in Petersburg, Va., last December 31 by shooting her to death while she was visiting a neighbor, was tried yesterday and sentenced to eighteen years in the penitentiary.

ENORMOUS GIFT BY ROCKEFELLER

Standard Oil Magnate Donates $32,000,000 in Lump to General Education Board.

MAKES HIS GIFTS $43,000,000

Donation Was Made Through John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Was Great Suprise—Greatest Prize Ever Contributed to Education.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

New York, Feb. 7.—An announcement was made late today that John D. Rockefeller has given the general education board $32,000,000. He had previously given the board $11,000,000. The gift is intended to assist in the work of the board throughout the country. The Education Board is designed to help educational institutions.

The gift is in the form of $32,000,000 worth of income bearing securities, the largest single prize ever handed out for educational purposes. Mr. Rockefeller's contributions to the work now amounts to $43,000,000. The General Education Board, apparently, was not prepared for this gift, which was announced simply in this letter:

New York, Feb. 5, 1907.

"General Education Board,

"54 William St., New York City.

"Gentlemen: My father authorizes me to say that on or before April 1, 1907, he will give to the General Board income bearing securities, the present market value of which is about $32,000,000 one-third to be added to the permanent endowment of the Board; two thirds to be applied to such specific objects within the corporate purposes of the Board as either he or I may from time to time direct, any remainder not so designated at the death of the survivor to be added also to the permanent endowment of the Board.

"Very truly,

"JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR."

Most of the members of the board were surprised at the announcement and amazed at the size of the gift. Dr. Butterick, the secretary, said he did not know the gift was to be made until he received the letter. Other members did not know of the donation until the letter was read.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., acting for his father, appeared shortly after the meeting was called to order, and handed the letter to the secretary, Dr. Wallace Buttrick.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., remained throughout the session of the board. Asked if he had anything to add to his letter, he replied he did not believe he could add anything of importance to it, as the letter explained itself.

Members of the board, when asked what the "specific purposes," referred to in Mr. Rockefeller's letter meant, said that it was in the line of educational work, and was intended, in their opinion, to give Mr. Rockefeller the right to direct the disposition of the fund to such institutions, within the province of the board as he may deem proper. The elder Mr. Rockefeller is not a member of the board, but his son is a member and the active direction, doubtless, will come from him.

The board voted to accept the gift, and in appreciation drafted a letter of acknowledgment to the elder Mr. Rockefeller.

No gifts of this great fund are intended to be given State educational institutions. Certain colleges will be selected for donations or endowments, forming a chain of educational institutions across the continent. It will become a question of the survival of the fittest, it is said, for which it is claimed a better and higher standard of education will result. On the maps in the William street office of the Rockefeller fund the colored pins marking the institutions will seal the fate of many a college and work out the destiny of the others to prosperous ends. From the income of the original fund of eleven millions conditional subscriptions have already been made to eighteen colleges in Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, Louisiana, Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania, amounting to a total of $1,077,500. As a condition of receiving these gifts the colleges are raising the further total sum of $3,262,500.

In the State Senate of South Carolina last night, the prohibition bill was killed 30 to 1. The anti-State dispensary bill was taken up and a test vote showed 23 to 17 in its favor. It has passed the House by two-thirds majority and will pass the Senate today. This means that the State dispensary will be abolished and that there will be prohibition. Those counties which now have dispensaries will be permitted to vote whether they want them continued under county control.

The jury in the case of Dr. J. W. Simpson, on trial at River Head, Long Island, N. Y., charged with the murder of his father-in-law, returned yesterday a verdict of not guilty.

Dandelion
unequalled for the cure of dyspepsia and all stomach trouble.

It is the work of the stomach to ferment the food and anything that interferes with this process of fermentation may be a cause of dispepsia. Strictly speaking there are dozens of causes of stomach trouble. The kind and quantity of food taken, worry, mental excitement, nervousness, lack of proper exercise It takes many forms such as debility (that tired feeling), loss of appetite, pain after eating, acidity, flatulence, vomiting, palpitation, cramps in the stomach.

Dyspepsia is dangerous because it has a very marked influence on the bowels, the kidneys, and the heart. It should therefore never be neglected. One or two boxes of Dr Edward's Compound Dandelion Tablets have cured many severe cases of stomach trouble. If you are a sufferer from this complaint buy today a box of this famous vegetable remedy and enjoy your meals the same as you used to do.
